

Graduate gains a solid orientation both in psychology and special pedagogy. He/she is able to apply the knowledge to make a research and to understand educational and special-educational environment. He/she would find a wide range of possibilities to work as an asistent for children or people with special needs.