

A graduate of this study branch acquires the needed knowledge and skill of a fully qualified teacher of social sciences in classes of high school.

A graduate of this study program has extensive education in pedagogy and psychology and uses effective didactic methods.

Studying the masters study branch Teaching General Education Programs for middle and high school level provides the graduate with full qualification for teaching civics classes of middle school level and introduction to social sciences, social sciences and civics classes of high school level. Next to attaining professional aptitude in disciplines of Social Sciences this study branch puts extra focus on learning modern ways of teaching, interdisciplinary connection of subject matter and effective didactic and work methods.