

Graduates gain a more advanced theoretical understanding and occupational specialization in early childhood education and care. They have competence for developing new strategies in educational practice and contributing innovations, managing and assessment, special social consultation services, counseling and intervention. They would find a wide range of possibilities to work in different pre-school and social institutions that all required maintaining, communicating and developing educational and cultural values, concentrated on individual development of the child, including children with special educational needs and their families.